PROFILE

I am a second-year undergraduate student pursuing a B.Sc. in Computer. My academic journey is driven by a strong interest in computing, problem-solving, and innovation. I am particularly passionate about leveraging technology to develop practical solutions in areas such as software development, automation, and systems design.

Through my coursework, I have built a solid foundation in programming, algorithms, data structures, and computer systems. I am committed to applying this knowledge in real-world contexts, with a focus on creating efficient, user-centered technologies that contribute to digital advancement and improved user experiences.
